A new national job board is dedicated to helping people with disabilities find jobs. The site, www.AccessibleEmployment.org, is designed to provide employers with one central place to post employment positions and search resumes of qualified disabled candidates. In addition, www.AccessibleEmployment.org allows potential job candidates to post their resumes for review by prospective employers who have made a commitment to include people with disabilities in their workforce.

The new service was started by the New Jersey Business Leadership Network with support from the Henry H. Kessler Foundation.
