

The Jersey Journal
Friday, August 18, 2006
New Jersey High School Redesign Steering Committee

HIGH SCHOOL OVERHAUL

TRENTON - Worried that New Jersey high school students don't graduate with the skills needed to succeed at work and in college, Gov. Jon S. Corzine and state education officials said Thursday they plan to spend the coming months looking at reworking high school coursework, assessment tests and graduation requirements.